The chair, for youngsters 3 years old or more, is designed with a waist belt of nylon webbing and an eight-foot harness for holding the child in check on a ski slope. The harness clips off the waist belt for the child's ride on a chair lift. Adhesive squares applied to the tips of the skis and a tether between them keep the child's skis in a snowplow position. Price: $24.95. Telephone (216)224-0060. GOLF The Tee-Off platform trainer allows a player to practice anywhere there is enough room to raise a club. The Tee-Off comes with a high-impact plastic ball suspended by a nylon cord from a steel arm. It is attached to a two-foot-by-one-foot base of fiberboard covered in artificial turf. The Tee-Off Company, of Madison, Wis., includes a diagram to show the golfer how to gauge a hit by the way the ball rotates around the arm of the device. Available in right- or left-handed models. Price: $34.95. Telephone (800) 533-9791. RUNNING Shoes that are laced too tight can cause aching feet. Shoestring Inc. of Ketchum, Idaho, has come up with an idea for elastic laces that are secured with a plastic locking device the size of a nickel called Willy's. Once the right tension is found, the laces are threaded through the lock and snapped shut. Release the lock, and they are adjustable. Available in 31 colors, including neons and metallics. YACHTING The current court battle over who keeps the America's Cup, San Diego or New Zealand, is only one part of the event's controversial past, which dates to 1851. In his new book, "A Picture History of the America's Cup," John Rousmaniere has delved into the archives of the Mystic Seaport Museum of Mystic, Conn., for a century's worth of black-and-white photos, mostly from the Rosenfeld Collection of Stanley Rosenfeld and his father, the late Morris Rosenfeld. The 128-page book, published by Mystic Seaport Museum Stores Inc., places the event in perspective for the armchair sailor. Price: $39.95.
